

■ Providing Confidence In Recovery

Even though at times it may provide important motivation, uncertainty is no friend of business. Fear of impending disaster has led to direct losses in profitability for the airlines and travel industries. Fear of economic loss has damaged the financial industry.

Recent events have given these fears increasing importance in our lives. We worry more than we should. It is times like these when we should not make things worse by worrying about things that we can control. And with the help of e-Z PAC, you can control your recovery.

Our goal at United Insurance is to give you control over your recovery from the disasters that we face every day. We developed the e-Z PAC program to give you that control and to reduce the worries that complicate your life. We can't change the times; we can't prevent loss or disaster, but we can insure your recovery.

So, why not talk to an Independent Agent representing United Insurance and, instead of worrying, operate your business with confidence.

■ Planning For Your Unique Needs

As Americans continue their love-affair with the automobile, today's auto service industry does much more than just keep cars running. It keeps the love alive with well-managed, high quality auto service.

These days, that specialized service is a responsibility that transcends the stereotypical 'corner garage' which served the needs of our parents and grandparents. Providing service for today's autos requires a burgeoning industry of dedicated professionals, well-schooled in his or her area of expertise.

The demanding complexity within today's auto service industry inspired United Insurance to develop e-Z PAC, a comprehensive protection program designed to provide customized insurance coverage to fit your needs.

■ Responding With Prompt Assistance

Long term growth in service industries like yours requires a special motivation beyond the satisfaction of having a good product. Successful services are also driven by a constant desire to 'be there' whenever the customer calls.

Thus, when disaster strikes a service company, each day of business interruption represents an eternity. It's why none of us can afford to respond slowly, and why we are dedicated to responding to disaster with utmost speed.

Here in Florida, where disaster strikes with the random suddenness of a lightning bolt, handling claims is extraordinarily critical. Thus, as a stable, well-nurtured company with deep roots in Florida, United Insurance has the disaster-tested strength and the will to do whatever it takes to help when you need it most.
